

Read this figure by region, not by distance from the diagonal

Detected defects sit ABOVE the diagonal, and that is expected: real defective code differs from clean code in more ways than the defect alone, so the real value is inflated. The diagonal is a reference, not a target.